

Name: _____

Date: _____

ASL 103: Lesson 5
Eating in a Restaurant: Created Sentences

Multiple Choice. Select the best answer for each statement or question below.

1) FINALLY, THERE WAITRESS.

The sign FINALLY is typically used to indicate that someone has been waiting for a _____ for something to happen.

- a) few minutes
- b) longer than expected time
- c) waitress
- d) month

2) FINALLY, THERE WAITRESS.

In a restaurant, the sign THERE would be made by pointing in the direction of _____

- a) the clock
- b) the door
- c) the waitress
- d) the hostess

3) YOU PATIENCE NONE.

Sally uses a topic/comment sentence structure for the placement of the _____

- a) negative sign NONE
- b) sign YOU
- c) sign PATIENCE
- d) signing space

4) I D-O. WHAT YOU EATING?

The fingerspelled D-O is commonly used in ASL. However, it is not used to convey the progressive tense -

- a) having
- b) wanting
- c) does
- d) doing

5) I D-O. WHAT YOU EATING?

The order of the signs in the sentence WHAT YOU EATING? is _____, but this one is common.

- a) not critical
- b) important
- c) just as you see it

6) I ORDER CHEESE PIZZA, COFFEE

Why is it unnecessary to directly translate "am" as it appears in "I'm".

- a) there are no "to-be" verbs in ASL
- b) no one knows
- c) no one cares
- d) some people just sign lazily

7) COFFEE, YOU LIKE?

How is Sally structuring this ASL translation?

- a) conditional
- b) rhetorical question
- c) topic-comment
- d) time-adverb marker

8) I LOVE-alot COFFEE

The sign LOVE-alot is not used in a _____ sense. It shows that someone is very fond of something.

- a) dreamy
- b) relationship
- c) dating
- d) romantic

9) I LOVE-alot COFFEE.

You can vary the degree of how much you love coffee by changing the _____ you use to sign LOVE-alot.

- a) movement
- b) emphasis
- c) direction
- d) location